RUDOLPH TOWN.

An Essay By a Member of the Allegretto Club.

A Well Written Composition on one of the Best Localities in the County.

To the Leaf-Chronicle.

This dear little village is to many of our young hearts, and also older ones, the grandest, loveliest, dearest spot in all creation. We feel and know that the very richest and choicest blessings heaven can afford have been continually thrown around our pathway, and we, as the young people of its fold, do fully realize that the Christian influence and the scattering of sunshine that have been constantly within our grasp and has made us what we are, is a blessing for which we may well be grateful. If we have been unconcerned and have failed to apply these opportunities to our lives and our characters, how hopelessly responsible will we be when we are summoned to appear before the judgment bar of God's eternal justice. So dear and precious have been the associations of our little band that we have been termed by others as selfish; but permit us to say it is only an elastic cord that has bound and woven us together so completely that within us is created a fondness for each other that will accompany our existence until our cold forms are laid beneath the sod of "Mother Earth." We love the pleasant surroundings of peace, happiness and prosperity that have ever been ours to enjoy.

We love to follow the blessed footsteps of those gone on before, who by their upright, Christian lives are adorning the beautiful shore.

Yes, we are devoted to old Rudolph town in almost every way. We love to till her fine tobacco soil, for which she has world-wide fame; we love to cherish the old school-house on the hill, where we used to play fox and hounds, postoffice, and ride attack horses for the mail; we love the old mill spot, where we used to meet and tune our instruments for the purpose of disturbing the peaceful and quiet repose of her many mansions; we are proud to give her unbounded praise for the wonderful privileges, blessings and comforts that have been bestowed upon us through the merciful touch of God's own hand; we love to take our guns in our hands and whistle to our dogs to hunt the partridge in the stubble fields; we love to search the yellow sage, where the rabbit makes its burrow; we love to hear the mocking bird as it pipes its strains of pleasing melody to the early morn; last but not least, we love the old spring 'neath the hill where the merry band of boys and girls would meet together to while away the longest and brightest of summer days in joyful mirth and glee; we love to sit upon the cliffs of rock and listen to the rippling waters as they move on in search of the mighty ocean; we love to drink its cooling waters as it gushes from the parent fountain; we love to gather the violets, ferns and evergreen mosses that adorn and cover her woodland slopes, that we might wreath them 'round our brows.

Yes, we are proud to love and cherish all these things, which will ever be a source of comfort to us as we tread the pathway of life, and we will love to meet those of that "merry party" one by one and talk of the "sweet days gone by." It may be that through search of fame and fortune we will be widely separated in this world, yet that elastic cord will lengthen as far as we can and will still bind and connect us with the spot we held so dear—the place we all call "Home."

A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there, which, seek through the world, is not found elsewhere.

How sweet yet sad it will be when we begin the shady side of life; when "silver locks are replacing the gold," to look back upon these young days and ask ourselves the sad question:

"Where now is the merry party I remember so long ago, laughing 'round the Christmas fires, brightened by its ruddy glow?"

And the answer will doubtless come back, "They have all dispersed and wandered far away."

After a few more fleeting years when some shall have "passed over the beautiful river and are resting under the shade of the trees," this thought will present itself:

"Some have gone from us forever, longer here they might not stay, they have reached a fairer region far away."

Then when we are old and stricken in years, and but few are left to represent the party, this sad thought will steal upon us:

There are still some few remaining who remind us of the past; but they change as all things change here; Nothing in this world can last.

Years roll on and pass forever, What is coming, who can say?

For this close many may be far away.

May each and every one of our little band so live and conduct their lives so that when the final summons comes we may join the innumerable host that moves to the pale realms of shade, and be permitted an entrance through the beautiful gate into the "Celestial City."

Yes, May we meet in fairer regions— In the land of perfect rest, Where no pain or strife can enter And where all are ever blest. And when we lay our burdens down To reap what we have sown, May we sing and clasp each other's hands Around the great white throne.

$500 Reward.

This amount the Lemon Chemical Co. proposes to pay to anyone who will prove that one of the testimonials concerning the wonderful effects of Lemon Chill Tonic are not genuine. Any one can write flattering articles and sign fictitious names, but "Lemon Chill Tonic" stands at the head as a Blood Purifier, a general tonic and appetizer. Lemon Chill Tonic is as pleasant as lemonade, and as large as the regular dollar size. Ask for Lemon Chill Tonic and insist on getting what you ask for. Take no substitute, but get a bottle, and you will thank this paper for drawing your attention to its merits. Price 50c. For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Co., Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

The lovely bride, who formerly resided in this county, has many friends here who wish her a happy married life.—Brownsville States-Democrat.

For sale and guaranteed by Clarksville Drug Company, Edwin Thomas, Jr., Manager.

You Are Wrong About This.

The government has sent a man to Clarksville to select a site for the proposed Federal building. As might be expected there are various lots for sale, and their owners seeing an opportunity are holding their property at stiff figures and giving Uncle Sam's agent no little trouble.—New Era.

The New Era is altogether wrong about this. Property has been offered the government for this building at less than its market value.

SHORT BUT SURE.

The People of Bowling Green Want That Rapist.

A Belief That He is in Custody at Glasgow, and a Committee Has Gone After Him.

Special to the Leaf-Chronicle.

BOWLING GREEN, Dec. 19.—The officers at Glasgow are of the opinion that they have captured the assailant of Miss Anderson, and much excitement prevails to-day in consequence. A party of representative citizens will go from here to Glasgow to-day to see if they have the right man. If he turns out to be the guilty party he will be brought here and a lynching will surely follow.

This is the negro arrested Saturday near Gallatin, Tenn., and from the marks on his person and from the description given by Miss Anderson the officers at Glasgow are reasonably certain they have caught the right man.

The indignation has subsided here but little. The people are determined that such an atrocious outrage shall not go unpunished, and they are itching to get their hands on the right party. The work will be short but very sure if they catch him.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

One Negro Shoots Another Near Schochoh, Kentucky.

The Killing the Result of a Quarrel at a Dance Saturday Night—Surrendered to Officers.

Some men coming to the city from Robertson county with tobacco to-day bring the news of a killing which took place at Schochoh, Ky., near the Robertson county line Saturday night.

It seems that the negroes had a big dance near that place Saturday night which broke up in the usual row. The row started between Bud Taylor and Will Shovan. About midnight, after the dance, while Taylor with a lantern in hand was passing Shovan's house he was fired on without warning. The shot missed Taylor who turned and quickly fired on his assailant with a 38 calibre revolver. The ball struck Shovan in the right breast killing him almost instantly. Taylor surrendered himself to officers and was carried to Russellville where he is now confined in jail.

Lost—Between the corner of First and Franklin streets, and the gas works, a box of artificial flowers. Finder will receive suitable reward if leaving at this office. d17d2t

Recipe For Cleaning a Stovepipe.

The boys are telling a good one to-day on our friend Capt. T. R. Hancock, who always tries every recipe offered. His latest is one to clean a stovepipe. The scheme was this: They have a stovepipe, with an elbow, in their office on river front, and it became clogged with soot the other day. Mr. Hancock got a pan of water and told Ben Boyd to open the door. Ben did as directed. "Now," said Mr. Hancock, "when I throw this water in the stove you shut the door right quick so the force of the lick will go up the pipe." He threw the water, but Boyd forgot to shut the door, and instead of the stuff going up the pipe it rebounded from the hot coals into Mr. Hancock's face. Ben Boyd has been afraid to go about the warehouse for several days.
